

Oct 13, 2006 I have the same problem with windows 7, maybe you should download these files Same as other people and have same issue. I tried to install a second copy of MasterCAM X4 but with same results: the program is not found. Jul 16, 2005 I have the same error message that everybody else has, There is no Mastercam X4 file. I have all the newest programs, no more or less. I had downloaded the error message and just tried it on my own, with no luck. The only think I did was download the driver (I'm not sure if I actually did) that is usually provided in the manual which goes along with the program, maybe I was wrong about what I put in there. I just clicked on the download and got another message saying I needed to find the source of the download to run it, so I did. I placed the file on my desktop and went to where the program is, but I still got the error. I ended up deleting the install that I got from the website cause it didn't work. There is no MasterCam X4 file on the CD. I have the latest version of Mastercam installed. I have searched the internet and could not find a solution. There has been no explanation for the problem. I have noticed that when I download the program to my desktop that the error message shows up. I do this a lot, and it has never happened before. I know this is not a big issue, but I am wondering if anyone has any other ideas. Maybe there is a small error in the file. It is hard to tell if the file is even running because no program is open. I have tried to run the program using the starter and it gives the same error. Please help Oct 11, 2009 There is no mastercam x4, but there is a mastercam x5. Oct 29, 2010 1) Go to Start>All Programs>Mastercam X4>File manager. 2) In the file manager, find the folder "hasp". 3) Right click on the "hasp" folder and choose "open". 4) For the start menu, go to all programs > Mastercam X4>Utility. 5) Click on utilities>Hasp. 6) Click on hasp

Oct 29, 2020 Updated to Win 10 I keep seeing references to an issue with Win 10 that has a similar problem to what Mastercam X4 Hasp Not Found. Has anyone else encountered this issue? If so, what is your solution? A: The problem is not that it's a new version, or that it's not detecting the Hasp. The problem is that the new version is using a new API, designed to be used with only 32-bit systems, which the new computer you are using is not a 32-bit system, so you have to find a way to work around it. The solution is to always go into the HELP menu and read the HELP section on the main window, where it tells you about the API (Application Programming Interface) that you need. When you get to the HELP menu, the section that you want to read is "API Definition" and it tells you that the latest version is in 32-bit only. Then you see that you can download a version that is 64-bit, but it comes with a warning that in effect says "Hey, I'm going to install a way bigger version. I won't install this version unless you know that you want a bigger version." So you click OK and the installer downloads and installs the ba244e880a
