fibroma of the mandible:

case report. Ossifying fibroma is a rare benign fibro-osseous lesion. It generally affects children and young adults with a female predominance. The aim of this report is to present an elderly man suffering from ossifying fibroma of the mandible. An 81-year-old man presented with a 3-year history of an asymptomatic, slowly growing mass on his right mandible. Plain radiograph was normal. Bone scintigraphy showed increased uptake of the lesion. The patient underwent right hemimandibulectomy. The histology showed an osseous tumor composed of spindle- and polyhedral-shaped fibro-osseous cells with scattered bone trabeculae, showing no atypia or mitosis. The case showed no malignant transformation. The postoperative clinical course was uneventful. The patient's definitive diagnosis was an osseous fibroma. No recurrence was evident 5 years after surgery.

quilt! I would like to get a quilt similar to your Entangled in Blue pattern, but I am not sure of which size to buy, and I just can't find enough of it online. I would like at least four blocks, but I would like two of them to be the same size for a clean finish. It is a homespun, spring/summer quilt, made from a lightweight, cotton/poly blend quilt batik, so the pattern is not too fussy. I can send a picture if you would like, or maybe even work up a Free Stamp Template for it if you'd like.

My e-mail is dearmrs@ag.com. I made your Ice Block quilt last year and absolutely love it. I love the colour theme and find it really unusual. It's great to learn how to quilt, as I have no sewing machine and lack confidence around fabric! I am a lifelong learner and love to be inspired. Thank you for sharing your talent! Thanks so much for your kind words. Yes, I'm a lifelong learner as well, but I don't have sewing machine and I'm a mite afraid of
